Ground works underway on the project in late 2024. Image: Bart Sikker /Ventolines via LinkedIn. Utility Eneco will optimise a BESS project in the Netherlands that, at 31.6MW/126.4MWh, will be the country's largest when it comes online before the end of the year.

Is the Dutch Bess market a good investment?

This document is for information purposes only and is not, and should not be construed as, an offer, invitation or recommendation. The Dutch BESS market offers strong potential amid rising flexibility needs, but faces grid and policy hurdles. Still, investor interest and regulatory innovation grow.

What challenges do Bess investors face in the Netherlands?

Moreover, the limited availability of new grid connections due to severe grid congestion poses additional challenges for potential BESS investors. Flexibility needs in the Netherlands are high, driven by the increasing share of intermittent renewable energy and lack of alternative storage technologies.

Eneco will optimise a BESS project in the Netherlands that, at 126.4MWh, will be the largest when it comes online before the end of the year.

What is Bess in the Netherlands?

BESS in the Netherlands is a new and small but increasingly necessary industry. A striking growth in battery capacity began in 2021 when the total installed capacity rose by 65% compared to the previous year. This number doubled in 2022 and then tripled in 2023, reaching 621 MWh.

Will Dutch Bess capacity reach 5GW by 2030?

By 2030, total Dutch BESS capacity could potentially reach up to 5GW. This, however, will depend on investor confidence regarding the revenue potential and developments in the Dutch regulatory environment. Revenues from ancillary services are still relatively stable, but the threat of cannibalization is looming.
