The Central African Republic's economy energy intensity (the ratio of the quantity of energy consumption per unit of economic output) was 7.2 MJ per US dollar (2005 dollars at PPP) in 2012, down from 13.8 MJ per US dollar in 1990. The compound annual growth rate

Energy intensity can therefore be a useful metric to monitor. Energy intensity measures the amount of energy consumed per unit of gross domestic product. It effectively measures how efficiently a country uses energy to produce a given amount of economic output. A lower energy intensity means it needs less energy per unit of GDP.
