It looks to me like a fisherman's battery box with a solar controller and inverter added. For many years now fishermen have enclosed their trolling motor batteries in rugged, heavy-duty and specialized "battery boxes" that are often festooned with Anderson, USB, and cigarette-lighter-type power connections.

I own, like, and use two of the 1000w. I think the Licitti design is great for some people but not for others. I too suggest checking out the older threads, but will point out that since I bought my Licitti's most of the major-brand portable power stations have dropped dramatically in price and gained longer warranties while the Licitti hasn't.

I did quite a bit of research, got quotes from installers and it got really overwhelming and expensive. This setup is definitely not cheap. $800 for the box, $30 for the tray, $100 for the wiring (used code "WELCOME10" for 10% off) and another $620 for the battery.

ChangeMoore fridge/freezer (with the add in tiny battery) and it ran at -4/37df for 2.5 days just on the battery alone which is great and had half life left on the internal battery. Testing the Changemoore with an EB70s showed that a 200 watt panel will pretty much keep up with the ChangeMoore during most mixed weather and that a 100 watt panel ...
